

Invisible Induction Cook tops

ARTSENSE®

Sintered Stone

Add an extra layer of luxury and prestige to your space by pairing Talostone® Artsense® with an invisible induction cooktop. The renowned durability of our Artsense® sintered stone, with its superior scratch and heat resistance, allows for the cook top to be completely concealed beneath the bench top. The result is a seamless, uninterrupted bench top that both enhances visual elegance and improves practical functionality with easier cleaning and maintenance.

Invisible induction cook tops utilise advanced magnetic induction technology that penetrates through the bench top surface, directly heating compatible cookware without the need for a traditional cut-out or visible appliance. Even the control interface can be discreetly hidden, preserving the clean, architectural lines of your Talostone® Artsense® bench top.

If you're considering combining one of our beautiful Talostone® Artsense® sintered stone surfaces with an invisible induction cook top, we strongly recommend partnering with a trusted brand such as Invisacook. Their proven technology and safety systems ensure you can extend the beauty of your Artsense® bench tops with complete confidence, without compromising performance or safety.
